2. NDLI is a digital library which works on World Wide Web and said NDLI users may be any user as NDLI desires to authorize access for the purposes of this agreement.
3. NDLI as a digital library uses metadata of contents to search, identify and render contents of the library to its user.
4. NDLI sources either only metadata of the contents from its Content Partners or metadata as well as full-text contents from its Content Partner. A Content Partner hosts the metadata and contents in its Institutional Digital Repository (IDR) or Website.
5. NDLI fetches metadata from Content Partner either by harvesting metadata from its IDR or extracting metadata from its website by crawling through computer programs or the data is sent to NDLI by the Content Partner periodically in batch-mode.
6. NDLI needs to normalize the metadata fetched from various Content Partners into a uniform pattern to ensure proper functioning of NDLI as an integrated platform with single-window search facility.
7. NDLI maps and curates the fetched metadata as per the pattern adopted in NDLI.
8. The curated metadata are stored and indexed in NDLI repository.
9. The single-window search facility works with these indexed metadata.

11/5.19

10. NDLI users search for contents using the single-window search facility and upon clicking the search results are able to view and download the full-text contents (of the Content Partner and those contents for which full-text access is permitted by the Content Partner in its IDR or Website).
11. If NDLI fetches only metadata (not the full-text contents) from its Content Partner then NDLI users view or download full-text contents (if full-text access is permitted by the Content Partner in its IDR or Website) by clicking a link in the search results provided by NDLI whereby the full-text content gets rendered from IDR or website of the Content Partner.
12. If NDLI fetches metadata as well as full-text contents from its Content Partners, then NDLI users view or download full-text contents from NDLI servers.
13. To build such a platform, NDLI needs to regularly enrich its repository of contents by integrating contents from an ever increasing number of Content Partners as well as periodically including in its repository the incremental contents from already integrated Content Partners.
14. NDLI provides the service to its said NDLI users free of cost and NDLI users undertake under notice thereof to use the contents solely for non-commercial purpose, normally for personal education or knowledge enriching purpose. NDLI users to further undertake to be solely responsible for any unauthorized acts which is thus not authorized by NDLI and/or its aforementioned purposes.

- E. In the interest of maintaining the service level for NDLI users, such as, response time, uninterrupted availability of the resources, full-text search to improve searching, if it is necessary to store the full-text contents of the Content Partner in NDLI servers, NDLI will obtain a separate permission from Content Partner in this respect.

1.0 Preamble

KAVIKRISHNA Laboratory (www.kavikrishnalab.org), a division of KaviKrishna is a research-based NGO lab committed to bring research on Stem Cell Altruism to India. KaviKrishna was registered in 2010 with the sole purpose of vision (Kavi) to action (Krishna) approach in research on Undiscovered Public Knowledge (UPI). The mandate of the lab is to revive the ancient Kamrupa thoughts on biological altruism, the Jiva Upakar Tantra (JUT), an UPI and a lost part of Satvata Tantra composed in 12th century Kamrupa as detailed in the book, KaviKrishna Laboratory, Reviving the spirit of Jiva Upakar Tantra or Vedic Altruism (Bikul Das, KaviKrishna Prakash, 2019, ISBN: 978-81- 939858-3-0). The laboratory has collaborated with Stanford University to report stem cell altruism (Das B et al. Stem Cells, 2012), and how bacteria may benefit from the altruistic behavior of bone marrow mesenchymal stem cells (Das B et al. Science Translational Medicine, 2013). In 2018, KaviKrishna received the recognition of scientific and industrial research organization (SIRO). The laboratory is now actively involved with its sister laboratory, The Thoreau Laboratory of Global Health at

University of Massachusetts- Lowell, MA, managed by KaviKrishna USA foundation, a 501 (C) (3) non-profit research organization registered under Massachusetts state of law, USA. We together published our work on the role of stem cell altruism in cancer stem cells (Das B et al, Cancer Research, 2019). This is another milestone to take forward the stem cell altruism research worldwide. We have signed memorandum of understanding with IIT Gauhati, Guwahati University, B. Barooah Cancer Institute and Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) New Delhi to take forward our research on stem cell altruism. Three PhD students have completed their PhD work and 3 are working on the field of stem cell altruism at KaviKrishna laboratory under the guidance of Dr. Bikul Das. Another 2 PhD students are working on Indigenous Knowledge System (IKS) based research to revive various UPI from ancient Kamarupa via KaviKrishna Telemedicine Care (KTC) and KaviKrishna Muga, a unit of KaviKrishna under the guidance of Dr. Bikul Das. KaviKrishna is providing free treatment suggestion and palliative care services to cancer patients through "KaviKrishna Telemedicine Care" (KTC), and collaborated with KaviKrishna Muga to start the "KaviKrishna Muga Museum" with a goal to revive the indigenous kamrupian information network (IKIN), and through the process, revive the indigenous industries in the Sualkuchi-Hajo cultural complex as described in the book, KaviKrishna Laboratory. Importantly, the IKIN project is also helping in the "cancer patient" rehabilitation research based publication house "KaviKrishna Prakash".

AND

SUALKUCHI BUDRAM MADHAB SATRADHIKAR COLLEGE SUALKUCHI,

1.0 Preamble

KAVIKRISHNA Laboratory (www.kavikrishnalab.org), a division of KaviKrishna is a research-based NGO lab committed to bring research on Stem Cell Altruism to India. KaviKrishna was registered in 2010 with the sole purpose of vision (Kavi) to action (Krishna) approach in research on Undiscovered Public Knowledge (UPI). The mandate of the lab is to revive the ancient Kamrupa thoughts on biological altruism, the Jiva Upakar Tantra (JUT), an UPI and a lost part of Satvata Tantra composed in 12th century Kamrupa as detailed in the book, KaviKrishna Laboratory, Reviving the spirit of Jiva Upakar Tantra or Vedic Altruism (Bikul Das, KaviKrishna Prakash, 2019, ISBN: 978-81- 939858-3-0). The laboratory has collaborated with Stanford University to report stem cell altruism (Das B et al. Stem Cells, 2012), and how bacteria may benefit from the altruistic behavior of bone marrow mesenchymal stem cells (Das B et al. Science Translational Medicine, 2013). In 2018, KaviKrishna received the recognition of scientific and industrial research organization (SIRO). The laboratory is now actively involved with its sister laboratory, The Thoreau Laboratory of Global Health at

University of Massachusetts- Lowell, MA, managed by KaviKrishna USA foundation, a 501 (C) (3) non-profit research organization registered under Massachusetts state of law, USA. We together published our work on the role of stem cell altruism in cancer stem cells (Das B et al, Cancer Research, 2019). This is another milestone to take forward the stem cell altruism research worldwide. We have signed memorandum of understanding with IIT Gauhati, Guwahati University, B. Barooah Cancer Institute and Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) New Delhi to take forward our research on stem cell altruism. Three PhD students have completed their PhD work and 3 are working on the field of stem cell altruism at KaviKrishna laboratory under the guidance of Dr. Bikul Das. Another 2 PhD students are working on Indigenous Knowledge System (IKS) based research to revive various UPI from ancient Kamarupa via KaviKrishna Telemedicine Care (KTC) and KaviKrishna Muga, a unit of KaviKrishna under the guidance of Dr. Bikul Das. KaviKrishna is providing free treatment suggestion and palliative care services to cancer patients through "KaviKrishna Telemedicine Care" (KTC), and collaborated with KaviKrishna Muga to start the "KaviKrishna Muga Museum" with a goal to revive the indigenous kamrupian information network (IKIN), and through the process, revive the indigenous industries in the Sualkuchi-Hajo cultural complex as described in the book, KaviKrishna Laboratory. Importantly, the IKIN project is also helping in the "cancer patient" rehabilitation research based publication house "KaviKrishna Prakash".

AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is entered into on this Eleventh day of May, 2019 (Two Thousand and Nineteen).

BETWEEN

Sualkuchi Budram Madhab Satradhikar College (SBMS College), situated at Sualkuchi, District Kamrup India, herein after referred to as "Content Partner" (which expression unless repugnant to the context shall mean and include its successors in interest, administrator, nominees and assigns) of the One Part;

AND

National Digital Library of India (NDLI), represented by Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur, an academic institution under Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, located at Kharagpur - 721302, West Bengal, hereinafter referred to as "NDLI" (which expression unless repugnant to the context shall mean and include its successors in interest, administrator, nominees and assigns) of the other Part.

The above referred "Content Partner" and "NDLI" is collectively referred to herein after as "Parties" and individually as "Party".

WHERE AS:

1. Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur (IIT Kharagpur) has been entrusted with the responsibility to host, coordinate and set-up National Digital Library of India (NDLI) towards building a national asset. The objective of the project is to integrate existing digitized and digital contents across educational and cultural institutions/bodies under said NDLI to provide a single-window access to different users hereinafter referred to as "NDLI users" for the purposes of this agreement. NDLI will fetch metadata of the contents and store and index these metadata in NDLI servers so that all the e-contents can be searched and accessed in full-text by said NDLI users through a single window.
2. NDLI is a digital library which works on World Wide Web and said NDLI users may be any user as NDLI desires to authorize access for the purposes of this agreement.
3. NDLI as a digital library uses metadata of contents to search, identify and render contents of the library to its user.
4. NDLI sources either only metadata of the contents from its Content Partners or metadata as well as full-text contents from its Content Partner. A Content Partner hosts the metadata and contents in its Institutional Digital Repository (IDR) or Website.
5. NDLI fetches metadata from Content Partner either by harvesting metadata from its IDR or extracting metadata from its website by crawling through computer programs or the data is sent to NDLI by the Content Partner periodically in batch-mode.
6. NDLI needs to normalize the metadata fetched from various Content Partners into a uniform pattern to ensure proper functioning of NDLI as an integrated platform with single-window search facility.
7. NDLI maps and curates the fetched metadata as per the pattern adopted in NDLI.
8. The curated metadata are stored and indexed in NDLI repository.
9. The single-window search facility works with these indexed metadata.

10. NDLI users search for contents using the single-window search facility and upon clicking the search results are able to view and download the full-text contents (of the Content Partner and those contents for which full-text access is permitted by the Content Partner in its IDR or Website).
11. If NDLI fetches only metadata (not the full-text contents) from its Content Partner then NDLI users view or download full-text contents (if full-text access is permitted by the Content Partner in its IDR or Website) by clicking a link in the search results provided by NDLI whereby the full-text content gets rendered from IDR or website of the Content Partner.
12. If NDLI fetches metadata as well as full-text contents from its Content Partners, then NDLI users view or download full-text contents from NDLI servers.
13. To build such a platform, NDLI needs to regularly enrich its repository of contents by integrating contents from an ever increasing number of Content Partners as well as periodically including in its repository the incremental contents from already integrated Content Partners.
14. NDLI provides the service to its said NDLI users free of cost and NDLI users undertake under notice thereof to use the contents solely for non-commercial purpose, normally for personal education or knowledge enriching purpose. NDLI users to further undertake to be solely responsible for any unauthorized acts which is thus not authorized by NDLI and/or its aforementioned purposes.
